1. Background information

Residence permits issued by the competent Authorities of Member States to accredited members of diplomatic missions and consular representations as well as their family members grant third country nationals the right to reside in a Member State and ensure their free movement rights within the Schengen area, provided that national authorities communicate the necessary documents to the border authorities of the other Member States, in accordance with the Schengen Borders Code. Identity Cards, entitled "SPECIAL ID CARD" issued by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Greece, upon request, have equivalent value to a residence permit. Nevertheless, the above mentioned documents do not meet the specifications of electronic documents as defined by the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO). Given the fact that various difficulties have been reported at the entry points of different Member States, related to the authenticity of those documents, the competent Greek authorities are in the process of deliberations regarding the possibility of issuing a new model card of residence permits to accredited members of diplomatic missions and consular representations and members of their families, containing increased security standards. In this respect, Greek authorities have expressed various opinions within the context of the new model of the card (either national format or 1030/02 format / either biometric included or not included). It is important to emphasize that we are not dealing this issue from the Vienna convention perspective but from the migration perspective in order to facilitate free movement and residence within the Schengen

|  | EMN NCP Austria | Yes | 1. In Austria, persons who have been issued a photo ID for holders of privileges and immunities under Art. 95 Aliens Police Act are excluded from the scope of application of the Settlement and Residence Act (§ 1 para. 2 Z 2 Settlement and Residence Act). This exception only arises from the issuance of the photo ID according to Art. 95 Aliens Police Act, the so-called legitimization card. Members of this group of persons are therefore not entitled to stay ex lege but are obliged to take care of the issue of an identification card. Their residence is otherwise unlawful (Supreme Administrative Court, 26.6.2013, 2011/01/0280), even if expulsion will not be possible due to the immunities existing under international law or international conventions. In particular, ambassadors, professional and honorary consuls, employees and experts of international organizations as well as their official and private domestic staff are entitled to such privileges and immunities. In addition, a photo ID in accordance with Art. 95 Aliens Police Act can be issued for family members of the aforementioned groups of persons living in the same household (Abermann et al, Niederlassungs- und Aufenthaltsgesetz, Art 1 marginal number 15et seqq.). The legitimization card is to be issued for a maximum of three years (Art. 1 para. 2 Regulation of the Federal Minister for Europe, Integration and Foreign Affairs on the issuing of photo IDs to members of those groups of persons who enjoy privileges and immunities in Austria). The legitimization card will be issued with different color codes depending on membership to a specific authorized group of persons (Art. 2 para. 1 Regulation of the Federal Minister for Europe, Integration and External Affairs on the issuing of photo IDs to members of those groups of persons who enjoy privileges and immunities in Austria). A sample of the legitimization card can be found here: https://www.ris.bka.gv.at/Dokumente/Bundesnormen/NOR40191488/II_60_2017_Anlage.pdf |

Spouses and children under the age of 21, when they are not French, do not have dual nationality, French and foreign, or are not long-term residents, receive an identical document. The card is generally issued for three years. It can be renewed for two years and then a new special residence permit is issued. The same applies to those entitled to a residence permit for whom the validity of the card cannot exceed the validity of the permit granted to the holder. 2. |  | EMN NCP Germany | Yes | 1. The above-mentioned persons receive a so-called protocol card. This is not a residence permit. The design of the protocol card follows the layout recommendations of ICAO Doc 9303 part V (TD1 documents). Whereas before 2019 the protocol card was issued as a laminated paperbased document, since October 2019 it is issued as a polycarbonat card. The protocol card displays the card holder's special status granted by the Federal Republic of Germany and indicate that he or she does not require a residence permit. In combination with a valid national travel document (diplomatic, service or ordinary passport or similar document), the protocol card also entitles the bearer in principle to enter all Schengen states and remain in them for up to three months. 2. The Regulation (EC) 1030/2002 and Regulation (EU) 2017/1954 is especially for the EU uniform format of residence permits. To prevent confusion regarding document checks, the design of the German protocol card is different. However, for standardization purposes, the layout and document security recommendations of ICAO Doc 9303 part V (TD1 documents) were taken into consideration. The German protocol card also serves as a national residence permit. The card is produced in the ID1 credit card format and meets the requirements of a highly secure and machine readable identity document. 3. The German protocol card is equipped with a machine readable zone but hasn't got a chip included. Fingerprints are not collected / recorded during the data collection for the purpose of issuing the protocol ID; according to our interpretation of the Vienna Convention on Diplomatic and Consular Relations, this would not be allowed. 4. The two fingerprints of a bearer of an electronic residence permit card are stored in the chip [following Regulation (EC) 1030/2002 and Regulation (EU) 2017/1954. |
